HSBC BRINGING ADDED PAYMENT OPTIONS TO CUSTOMERS WITH ANDROID PAY

HSBC is providing its customers with another way to pay, with Google's Android Pay being made available in the UK from today (18th May). HSBC customers can now use Android Pay to make quick and secure payments wherever they see the contactless or Android Pay symbol.

HSBC has worked with Google on Android Pay, ensuring its customers are among the first to have access to the new service.

Customers with a compatible Android device can download the app from the Google Play store and add their HSBC card details to start using Android Pay. If a customer already uses an HSBC card for Google Play, they can confirm to use this card for Android Pay too.

Francesca McDonagh, Head of Retail Banking and Wealth Management in the UK, said that Android Pay is another step in HSBC meeting customers' expectations of easier and more convenient banking: "Investing in new technology and digital services like Android Pay is important to us. We are providing convenient banking to customers, wherever and whenever they need it, with new initiatives like Mortgage In A Day, the nudge app, voice biometrics, and also a Video Relay Service, helping deaf communicate with us using British Sign Language. With these initiatives and more, we are giving our customers the tools to take more control of their finances."
